

Characters Welcome

The characters in your story can be human, animal, plant, imaginary, and even inanimate objects. It is important to give your characters life! The first step is to define the who and what of your character. When writing your story you need to maintain the same traits of your character. If there is a change in your character then you will need to create reasons why they are or act differently. Then, use the Character Worksheet on the next page to name and identify the characters in your story.

After learning about Tofu in the story, identify and list his traits below:

Character Name: Tofu Ling

Age: _____ Gender (Male or Female): _____

Distinguishing Features: (hair, fur, wings) _____

Color of hair, fur, skin, scales: _____

Interests:

Attributes: (hard worker, day dreamer, charming, compassionate, funny)

Special Skills: _____

Pets: _____

Friends: _____

Parents: _____

Brothers and Sisters: _____

Character Worksheet

Character Name: _____

Age: _____ Gender (Male or Female): _____

Distinguishing Features: (hair, fur, wings) _____

Color of hair, fur, skin, scales: _____

Interests: _____

Attributes: (hard worker, day dreamer, charming, compassionate, funny)

Special Skills: _____

Pets: _____

Friends: _____

Parents: _____

Brothers and Sisters: _____

Other interesting facts about this character: _____

Draw a picture of your character below: